1. Approximately two kilometers southwest of Voluyak (N 42-46, E 23-15), Sofia Okoliya, and to the right of the road lies a small wooded area to which entrance is forbidden. The foliage is thickest in the first outer rows of trees, and it is evident that the trees are being cared for. Around the wooded area there is a belt of plowed land, 250 x 300 meters deep, and small earth-covered bunkers are visible in the plowed belt.
2. South of the wooded area and along the railroad which passes the site there are several concrete domes. Although they can hardly be seen above the level of the ground, they can be recognized by their color. Building materials, principally bricks, are stacked in piles of 300-400, at a distance of 200 meters apart. The stacks seem to form lines from the railroad to the wooded area.
3. Although no buildings can be seen on the site, approximately 3,000 square meters are fenced off. A viaduct, approximately four meters high, has been built one kilometer south of the wooded area.
4. The proximity of the site to the railroad makes it probable that either a fuel or ammunition depot is being constructed.
5. The following legend refers to a sketch of the area shown on page 2:
 1. Sofia
 2. Road to Voluyak
 3. Unpaved road
 4. Railroad
 5. Viaduct
 6. Voluyak village
 7. Bunkers
 8. Wooded area
 9. Concrete domes
 10. Fenced area
 11. Stacks of building materials.
